

SERVICES FOR DEAD KING

Alexander Vouros, New Greek
Charge d'Affaires Here, to Attend Memorial.

Alexander Vouros, formerly first secretary of the Greek legation in London, has arrived in Washington and assumed the duties of charge d'affaires of the legation of his country here, in the Wyoming, Columbia road and California avenue.

As one of his first public duties, he will tomorrow attend the memorial service for the late King George of Greece, which is to be held in the Greek Catholic Church in Baltimore. The Russian ambassador also is expected to attend the service.

Succeeds L. L. Cattanogio.

Mr. Vouros succeeds L. L. Cattanogio, who has just left Washington on the return journey to Athens, where he will remain on the waiting list for his next assignment in the diplomatic service of his country. It is expected that he will receive a foreign assignment shortly.

At the service in the Greek Catholic Church in the Monumental city tomorrow it is expected that many Greeks of this and other neighboring cities will be in attendance. The body of the late King George will be interred in Athens tomorrow, and Greek leaders of the world will hold memorial services in observance of the occasion.

"LOAN SHARK" LAW CLAIMED TO BE VOID

Applicant for License Files
Mandamus Suit Against District Commissioners.

The validity of the new "loan shark" act is questioned in a proceeding in mandamus filed today by William N. Prender, a resident of Cherrydale, Va., against Cuno H. Rudolph, John A. Johnston and Chester Harding, Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

On the claim that the new act is void, Mr. Prender made application for a license as pawnbroker under the old law and was refused. He now asks the court to compel the Commissioners to grant him the requested permit.

Chief Justice Claiborne cited the Commissioners to show cause next Friday why the writ of mandamus should not issue.

Discrimination Is Alleged.

Through Attorneys Tucker, Kenyon & Macfarland and E. S. Bailey, the petitioner says the new act does not repeal the old law, either in terms or by implication.

If the old law is repealed, then the lawyers claim the new act is void, because it discriminates against non-resident individuals and in favor of non-resident corporations and resident individuals and incorporations. It is also void for uncertainty, is the contention of counsel.

Believing the old law still in force and that he was entitled to conduct a pawnbroker's establishment and charge 3 percent per month on money advanced on pledges, Mr. Prender says, March 13 he applied for a license to conduct such business and complied with all the requirements under that enactment. March 20, he alleged, the District Commissioners denied his request on the sole ground that the act of February 4, 1913, covered the issuance of licenses of that kind and that no license would or could be issued under the old law. The refusal, he claims, is unlawful and he is entitled to the aid of the court to compel the issuance of the license.

MIDSHIPMEN REQUIRED TO FULFILL CONTRACT

Secretary Daniels Insists on Service of Eight Years—Duty to the Government.

A death knell to early resignations from the navy was sounded today by Secretary Daniels of the Navy Department in an announcement that he had taken a decided stand against accepting the resignations of midshipmen and other young officers before they had fulfilled their contract with the government.

Upon entering the Naval Academy the government regards itself as having a binding contract with the midshipmen to educate and train them for a period of eight years in the service. That period includes the four-year term at the academy.

Government's Rights Maintained.

Secretary Daniels explained that the government was at considerable expense to educate and train these officers, and he believed it should receive a permanent benefit for the expense involved. The policy is designed to imbue young officers with a sense of their responsibilities to the government and to impress them with the fact that the government has a right to their services, if satisfactory.

Previous administrations have endeavored to execute a similar policy, but with indifferent success.

Runaway Boys Captured.

Marion Brotsky, sixteen years old, residing at 1244 7th street northwest, and Frank Pfeiffer, fourteen years old, residing at 310 9th street northwest, were arrested in Pittsburgh, Pa., last night as alleged runaway boys, according to a message received at police headquarters from the Pittsburgh police. Relatives of the boys will arrange for their return.

Former President of the Maryland Live Stock Sanitary Board E. Gittings Merryman of Cockeysville, Md., is somewhat improved after a serious illness of heart trouble.
